J.W.TUOHY & CO.

North Chicago Dry-Goods House. West Chicago Dry-Goods House.

The ladies of Chicago never had cause to express such astonishment and enjoy such privileges of buying GOODS, etc., at prices as incomparably cheap as they realized during the past two weeks at the North and West Side houses of J. W. TUOHY & CO.

Further have J. W. T. & CO. ever experienced such continuous crowds of shrewd buyers—a fact which gives evidence of the appreciation of the overwhelming bargains which every department represents.

For this week we announce the following extraordinary list of attractions:

At 29c Yard.

We will place on our Silk Counters in both stores 100 pieces Dutch Summer Silks, 100 pieces Lyons Surah Silks, 100 pieces Plain and Gros Grain Dress Silk, all at the exceedingly low figure of 29c for choice; over 50 colors to select from.

One Shilling

In the remarkable and simply wonderful price for your choice of 2000 pieces Turquoise Dress Silk in evening shades, opera, reserve, and dark shades.

Rare novelties are our beautiful Tricotine Silks, in every color, at the nominal price of 50c yard.

Rare fully 40-inch Black Satin Rhadames at 69c and 75c, actually worth one-third more.

The above Silks are unquestionably the most unprecedented bargains ever announced in this country, and must certainly prevent Silk buyers from every part of the city.

We also offer an extensive variety of Fine Colored Gros Grain Silk at 69c, value 75c, and 75 pieces regular dollar quality Colored Silk at 89c.

One lot Black Silk, in four numbers, at 59c, 65c, 69c, and 75c; worth one-third more.

Extraordinary value in Antelope Colored Gros Grains Black Silk at 69c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.69, and up to $3.50.

Handsome Satin Rhadames and Satin Duchesse at $1.10, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, and $2.50.

Two-Tone Evening Satins, in all colors, only 59c.

One lot Jacketing Corduroy, only 25c; worth 75c.

300 pieces Colored Velvets at the popular low price of 89c.

Wonderful lot Black and Colored Brocade Velvets, only 98c; worth $1.50.

75 pieces Colored Satins, in every shade, only 39c. Extra Fine Satin 48c; usually sold at 75c.

Magnificent cutlet new Summer Silks at 39c, worth 65c.

Satins with New and Rich Watery Black Armure Silk, for mourning, $1.39.

We direct Special Attention to our superb variety Chenne Silks, Pongee Silks, Printed Silks, Satin Rays Silks, Qualitie Janvier Silks, Fine Louisine Silks, Rare M.-Cloni Silks, Serge Imperiale Silks, Voile de Bois Silks, etc., etc.

We will be greatly surprised if it is a week don't experience the largest crowd of wide-awake ladies ever seen in any dry-goods house in Chicago, in view of which we might remind our patrons of the advisability of avoiding the midday rush by calling early in the day or late in the afternoon.

NOTE—Our West-Side House is open every evening for the accommodation of ladies who find it inconvenient to shop during the day.

Mail orders attended to our North Chicago House will receive Prompt and Careful Attention.

EXTRAORDINARY BULLETIN!

INCONTESTABLE VALUES!

Every business house has some leading principle of action to which its success may be attributed. One is "equal sentiment to everything." We don't make a quantity of bills, or Shakers, or Dress Goods, or any other separate department. We are the recognized originators of clean prices all round. Buy on the most advantageous terms we can obtain and sell for as little profit as an eye of food, and as a result we are constantly offering our customers special bargains in every one of our departments, any one of which would be thought by any competitor sufficient ground for a column or more of advertising pulchritude. Take a walk through our stores and see if facts don't bear out our assertion when we refer you to the embroidered GRANDEUR, ATTRACTIONS, which any thinker a brief's eye view of the many thousand bargains running in both stores.

Mr. P. L. Cable, one of the 1st directors of the Rock Island Railroad, President of the Canada Southern, and a director of several other roads, died suddenly of neuralgia of the heart near San Antonio, Tex., aged 66 years.

Money and sterling exchange were quiet and steady. Investment securities were in good demand. The New York stock market was fairly active, with an advancing tendency.—The Chicago produce markets were dull except in wheat, but that was prominently weak, while other cereals tended to weakness on the prospect of larger receipts the coming week. As compared with Friday's pack closed 1 cent higher; July 1½ cents higher, sold, unchanged, wheat is 1 cent lower, corn and lard 2½ cents, oats ½ cent lower, and pork 10 cents. The shipments from the city during last week exceeded the receipts by 651,000 bushels in wheat and 797,000 bushels in corn. The packing of the city since the close of January includes 867,000 hogs, against 797,000 for the same time last year and 917,000 for the season of 1894.

Baroness William of Cattaneo, who is known of the Anglo-bank of Mrs. Pauline Cattaneo, ordered to be conveyed to the American Minister, as soon as he had received from the first stock of his great grief, an official token of the imperial sentiments.

Miss Pauncefote, the daughter of the United States Minister to Berlin, has almost recovered from the effects of her fall recently in New York. She was married to her brother's home yesterday. No arrangements have yet been made for Mrs. Pauncefote's funeral.

The Acting Secretary of the Treasury yesterday issued the 127th call for the redemption of bonds. The call is for $4,000,000 of the 5 per cent loan of 1904, and notice is given that the principal and accrued interests will be paid the 1st day of July, 1896, and that the interest will cease that day.

A conference of the Liberal Union was held at London yesterday, and was largely attended. Lord Harrington was present and was loudly cheered. Among other distinguished persons present were the Duke of Argyll, the Duke of Westminster, Baron Rothschild, Lord Rothschild, Mr. Goschen, and Mr. Ritchie.

Mr. Blaine's resignation of the American fishery policy was handed to Lord by the week before of Bayard and the President to, duty negotiations with the British Minister, who, if all reports are true, is more than a match for them in diplomacy. If they will plant themselves firmly on Mr. Blaine's platform, and make fair demand vigorously and carefully, they will settle the question in a short time and save the American people a good deal of worriment. If they are not able to settle it on that platform, if the pro-English tolerance which aided the clerks of the present Administration are too strong for them, then they had better drop the matter altogether and let it lie over until Mr. Blaine comes into the White House, March 4, 1897, to promptly settle it. It is an important question and can easily wait, for it is only two years to the next Chicago Convention. Meanwhile, in the midst of all the hauling and trucking at Washington, it is refreshing to hear the bold American utterance from the Harbor. It will stir the enthusiasm and patriotism of every man who is in favor of maintaining the rights of his country. It will make Commonwealth of Americans not only in New England but all over our broad area who wish for one hour of Jupiter G. Blaine in settling his mates.

The mass-meeting to be held next Tuesday evening at Sidney D. under the auspices of the Irish National League of America, will certainly be a most interesting one. Every one who believes Gladstone's efforts to do justice to Ireland and reconcile the two races—Celt and Saxon—ought to attend. Its purpose is to indorse the principle of local self-government for Ireland and to congratulate England's greatest statesman on the just and advanced step he has taken to heal the feud of centuries between the two islands. It is singularly appropriate that the head of the home-rule government of this State, Gov. Culloom, should preside. And, to answer to the cry of the Times, why must Irishmen consent to restrict American sentiment, that it is only the Irish who believe Gladstone, it was both a shrewd and a conciliatory plan which provided that clergymen of every denomination should be among the speakers. In addition to the Irish-American members and the Catholic clergymen the following gentlemen will deliver addresses: The Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Judge Rogers and Anthony, the Rev. Dr. E. G. Hirsch, the well-known Celt, and the Rev. Messrs. Dwight Bering, Arthur Dewey, E. W. Bolton, George C. Lorimer, Arthur Little, E. A. Lathrop, John H. Barrows, and W. G. Snad. The last-named gentleman is the pastor of the Ariana Unitel U. S. Church. The spirit of the meeting and of its arrangements are broad, liberal American. It should be made worthy of Chicago and worthy of Gladstone.

FAIRNESS TO CITIZEN AND THE CHICAGO LABORING.

In his vigorous remarks in passing sentence on the accountant, Ed. Judson, who executed a note of $50,000 to betray the City of New York, Judge Barrett declared that the most deplorable feature of the case was the popular belief that the intimidating Alderman would not be convicted, altho there was no doubt of his guilt. Judge Barrett said: "The Judge arose because the people had not sufficient faith in their countrymen, because they feared that in the end crime would triumph over virtue—a doubt of the jury system, of the zeal of our Public Prosecutor, and of the ability of the detective branch of the police." Judge Barrett therefore expressed a high degree of satisfaction that the law had been impartially executed, with the result of dragging to justice a thieving Alderman who had been watching to corrupt for years and "scoring at every honest effort to bring about a better state of things."

Precisely the same state of affairs Judge Barrett so strongly deplored has existed in the Common Council of Chicago for years, but unfortunately there is no immediate prospect that the Judges of this city can be brought to justice and public confidence in the administration of justice restored. If the election of grand and petit jurors in New York had been in the hands of Judges and his associates Judge Barrett would not have been able to congratulate the people on a prompt and rigid enforcement of the law. In this county the 3 Judges of grand jurors to be taken from the list of the County Board—a body closely affiliated with the corrupt Aldermen, pandering to the gang possessing and electing the body of the same or similar criminals. Instead of a Judge with more than a majority of the Aldermen in the last Chicago Council, or for the matter of that of a considerable number in the present, not the same majority will serve for the County Board. Having the keys of the doors to New York of gamblers, saloonkeepers and others in the municipal misgovernment in Chicago. Intimidating Aldermen have granted corrupt contracts, plundered the taxpayers, and sent gas, detectives, crooks and horse railway and other franchises with an audacious and impudent grant that scorns anything in the record of Judson and his associated felons except as to the exact method; but as their failure in the County Court makes up grand juries not to indict your other year they "grant of efforts to bring about a better state of things," and the public continues to hold "a cabin of the just opinion."

The Citizens' Association ought to devise some plan for taking the selection of jurors away from the County Board or any other act of hostile officials or persons under their influence or control. The association had off to the successful effort to avoid the discreditable machinery from the perpetual Aldermen and the corrupt Commissioners, and show that reform has been accomplished it ought to scan the next Legislature to deprive local political hacks of all opportunity to pack grand juries and secure their own acquittal. The grand honest, impartial, independent grand and petit juries are secured can there be any hope that the Chicago and Cook County Judges will be brought to the bar and dealt up for sentence. When the juries are removed from all dependence upon or association with corrupt local officials there will be a fair prospect that bribery and blackmail in the Council and County Board can be uncovered, the guilty legislators punished, and a thriftsome corruption restrained for the future.

To portion of the machinery of American government is so deteriorated and destroyed as the municipal and local legislative bodies, which possess the franchise-granting, contract-making, taxing, and disbursing power. And there is no way of enforcing their anti-pruitous except by haltering and convicting their corrupt members. This can never be done so long as councils and boards have anything to do with the selection of grand or petit jurors. The outside must control them.

AMBASSADOR TO THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

As a rule the public schools escape their charges for future citizenship by inculcating a small smattering of history, a very superficial knowledge of the machinery of government, some hazy and befuddled notions about "liberty and equality," and a belief that the best thing a boy can do is to get into some genteel occupation where he can make a living without manual labor and aspire to become President of the United States. This sort of political education is rounded out with a liberal sprinkling of Fourth of July bunkum, and the average boy acquires the smattering of its information as to the duties and responsibilities of citizenship in the midst of heated partisan controversies. Recent events show plainly enough the importance of teaching at least the fundamental principles of American citizenship from a non-partisan standpoint, and that the work should be begun early and followed up with additions ness. One or two patriotic organizations are making laudable efforts in this direction, but their work is inside a limited field and largely confined to their own membership. The chief responsibility for the failure to inculcate sound American principles rests on the public schools.

The discussion which followed the lawmaker commerce and the arrest of the Anarchist leaders disclosed a remarkable popular ignorance of the American doctrine of free speech. Instructors, otherwise intelligent, successful business men—even broad-minded lawyers—were found insisting that "free speech" carried with it the right to incite riot, robbery, and murder with impunity. The opinion seemed quite general that once the mouth of the riles and faction lets every American citizen had an inalienable and moral right to advise and encourage treason, homicide, arson, or any other crime and could not be punished unless guilty of committing the offense with his own hand. This precedence, preposterous notion has been dissipated by the sentence of the press, followed up by Judge Bagot' charge to the grand jury; but the fact that it was so generally entertained shows what a hold gross political falsities have on the public mind.

Instead of glittering and unmeaning generalities about "freedom and equality" the public schools ought to teach just what are the rights of life, liberty, property, and free speech, and emphasize their grave, practical importance to every citizen. The corresponding duties and responsibilities should be pointed out and stress laid on the fact that every man is responsible for the abuse of any right, and that such abuse begins whenever its conduct or speech affects the safety of others or interferes with their liberty to follow legitimate pursuits and acquire, hold, and dispose of their property in such lawful manner as they see fit. Teaching of this character will show the real value of American principles and inspire a regard for "a just, rational, constitutional liberty." A right understanding of the American principle of "liberty regulated by law" will foster and strengthen patriotic feeling and make it impossible for alien doctrines to take root in the United States. The public schools could be made ministries for the promotion of the purest, enlightened American patriotism.

BLAINE ON THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

Mr. Blaine has expressed his views on the fisheries question in such a pertinent, right-to-the-point, and statesmanlike manner that every sympathy in the United States who is an American and has pride in his country, and who cares about Mr. Blaine, will feel like kicking himself for doing so. While the President and Secretary Bayard, in spite of the action of Congress, are still trying by every means in their power to surrender to the English Government by the appointment of a commission, here is the way James G. Blaine talks:

> The fisheries question resolves itself to a matter of fact. The Governors of the United States ought to have the privilege of fishing on any portion of the coast not the property of others. The Governments of the United States should demand—I say demand—of England a return to the terms of the treaty of 1783, when the peace and boundaries between the northern country and the conquered colonies were arranged and negotiated. That treaty gave to the United States the same rights and privileges as regards the fisheries that the Canadians of the colonies enjoyed prior to the Revolutionary War. Those rights confirm the citizens of the United States to the fisheries upon the coast, not of the provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, and Newfoundland.
>
> The act of any fishermen who catches allegiance of citizens, and the British Government does such a ruling after the War of 1812, when the provisional treaty of 1815 created a fisheries convention between England and the United States. The treaty of 1783 has never been technically abrogated, nor has any treaty been made between the governments of the two countries. The treaty of 1783 has never been made to a fishery and that the fishery clause of a fishery. The rights thus given a fishery on the shores of the colonies are not to be abrogated by subsequent events.
> Great Britain cannot, the public records show, abrogated or declared void by the Americans. The question should be settled once for all. The American fishermen are entitled to no privileges in any foreign territorial waters which are not to a question to suffer as they have suffered for many years. I think that England would yield the point if a determined vote of the moral force of the United States.

In all the talk and all the agreements that have been made on this vexed question there has been nothing spoken or written which goes so directly to the point, which has so clear a vision of the rights of the question, or which has such a manly, American ring to it as these few sentences. Instead the intercourse of the men—every inch an American—with the halting, vacillating policy of the Administration and it may be something disagreeable to England. Let the President and his pro-English Secretary of State pluck up courage and listen to Mr. Blaine. "There is no use talking," the United States, if their Commercial interests itself properly, are too just and grand a Nation to consent to forego. A vigorous expression of the just views of the Government will receive the assistance from any foreign Power, especially from England."

The Administration needs just such a rebuke as this to bring it up to the sentiments of the American people as voiced by Mr. Blaine, and if Mr. Bayard can stay long enough, in the midst of his enjoyment as ambassador with the British Minister, to listen to the ringing declaration of American rights, he may gather considerable information on the fisheries question as well as some items concerning which may enable him to maintain the dignity and assert the rights of his own country. He may learn that the treaty of 1783, which acknowledged American independence and gave the United States as a Power the same fishery rights they had as colonies, was a part of the terms of peace, that it cannot be set aside by any subsequent treaties made by the treacherous old story power, and that it is only necessary to assert this principle to have it respected and to have no further trouble in the fishery business.

This country wants no more packed "commissions" to bolster our rights and assist us in foregone by underhanded influences. It has the right on its side already, under the treaty of 1783, and it is only necessary to assert it in order to obtain it. It was part of the consideration upon which Great Britain paid for peace with her rebellious colonies. It was one of the first fruits of the declaration of American independence.

THE FOREIGNER'S SUPERIORITY.

The current number of Puck contains a cartoon entitled "The Return of the Workingmen's Procession," which all workingmen would do well to look at and study to-morrow. It represents a little cot in a workingmen's home, around which are gathered the father, mother, children, and grandmother. In the centre is a large empty cupboard, with the children are regarding with wistful, hungry looks, while the mother sits hopelessly by and the father contemplates it with a significant glance. The cause of its emptiness is shown in two ways. On the wall, between two satirical notices, "God help our home" and "Save us from our friends," hangs a batch of announcements which have been levied upon the head of the family to assist "Third Avenue Railroad strikers," "Sugar-refinery strikers," "Aggressive coal-handlers," "Brickyard strikers," "Boilermaker strikers," "Outdoor strikers," and all kinds of strikes. Underneath the bills are four key holes, a "walking delegate," an "agitator," a "boycotter," and an "incendiary editor," with holes in their coats attached to the holes of the cupboard. They have sucked it dry and there is nothing left for the hungry family, who look at each other in despair and bewilderment.

There are two lessons in this picture which workingmen should examine, but won't. First, whether a pale there is the end—this permanent business to support strikes and strikebreakers, which comes also those out of the fact a good workingman, who is employed at his regular wage strikes and pay the expenses of a lot workmen who were higher pay and less work and second men in, and does not deserve it, instead of allowing each workingman to get his own price in accordance with the value of his labor. Why should a skilled workman submit his wages to the level of an unskilled workman for the sake of establishing a uniform rate of payment irrespective of ability? In the second place, does not the bitter experience of the last three years convince workingmen that their interests can be best worked every time by waiting delegates, at whose orders they have struck without reason or hope of success; by intended, reckless agitators (the lives, who have had their fair of success or trouble), by boycotters who have sought to teach by tortious and drive laborers from their work, and by fantastic and insensible economists and doctrinaire who have tried to induce them to violate the laws? There are signs here and there that workingmen are beginning to think about these things. The workingmen of Salem, who have suffered greatly by following the advice of fools, drove the rest of that city the other day. When the present excitement has calmed down and labor has been completely rescued it may be that workingmen will get rid of some of these felons who have been making their existence and getting them into trouble. When they come to listen to more prudent and sensible leaders the Powderly and Arthur they will realize that employers are not enemies, that property is not robbery, and that there is no law which forbids them making the most of their skill and industry, which are their capital, and, by joining them to the power of capital, to increase their wages and better their condition.

REJUVENATED DISTRIBUTION OF THE ELECTION.

The action of the city authorities, so far as it goes, in superseding the disgraceful and at times brutal scuffling, deserting, and disgusting exhibitions which have been so frequent in the city for some time past is commendable. So much honor has been allowed to this discreditable that Chicago has become the laughing-stock for snarling characters, sluggers, and prize-fighters, and nearly every citizen has lost its semblance of time disreputable and their abandoned terms of gamblers, blackleggs, and hoodlums. To all hands and purposes every one of these exhibitions has been a prize-fight, conducted according to the rules of the prize-ring, and ending only when one of the brutes has pounded the other into insensibility. The miserable subterfuge of naming two-ounce gloves does not alter their character, as glover have not proved an obstacle in the way of prosecuting such affairs to a jury. The only material difference is that the prize-fight is conducted in the open air and the slugging-match in a hot or frowsy. In every respect the one has been as disgusting as the other. They have been conducted in the interest of thieves. They have induced a multitude of brutes to come here. They have encouraged ruffianism. They have been demoralizing not only to those concerned in them but to boys and young men who are tempted to visit them. Chicago has come to be regarded as the paradise of the disreputable class of the community, and the heavenly element there has drawn here from other cities.

The announcement of the Superintendent of Police forbidding any more of these exhibitions will have the effect to rid Chicago of the presence of these disreputable persons. If they are not allowed to indulge in their profitable pastimes they will migrate to other cities which are more tolerant of brutality. It remains to be seen, however, how much is meant the Mayor is in shutting down upon Mr. Harlow's attacks of virtue are very like

CLOSE OF THE FESTIVAL.

CINCINNATI'S ANNUAL WHIRLS WITH MUSIC AS AN END.

As Usual, the Managers Will Come to the Front to Make Up the Financial Shortage—The Entertainment Was "Wine above the Head" of the Average Citizen of the Metropolis—Speculations as to Whether or Not Cincinnati Can Hold Exhibitions.

CINCINNATI, O., May 22.—[Special.]—The festival came was not so fully attended as the opening concerts here were, the rain and stormy beginning to let on players and hearers alike. The latter drove away in carriages and omnibuses [illegible] Saturday's Twenty-third Psalm in a downing manner. The quality of some of these 300 female voices is remarkably excellent. They so far surpass our Chicago organized and also as the tenor and basso fall behind ours. The male orchestra numbers were Liszt's Symphonic Waltz and Berlioz's Symphonic Fantastique, a piece of program music in five parts. The Liszt music has the appearance of [illegible] The male's pounding [illegible]. Mme. Rappold sang nobly in the two evening but unsatisfactorily [illegible] Gounod's "Ave Maria" and Liszt's "Sphinx." She sang both in German. Gounod sang for the majority of the audience the while to favor her lovely contralto and artistic style [illegible] Conspicuously she failed at the other which her voice and natural [illegible] of popular musicians only an artist? Clearly not. These can be none of genuine. A [illegible] can be either one or both of the things. It can [illegible] the genius of appreciation of music, and a genuine and really great artist [illegible] to [illegible] by being there better than singers. This is a good topic for us to [illegible] to the second place, a festival can [illegible] the most of which leaves by performing here under appropriate conditions of artistic excellence and privilege, thereby opening a [illegible] of enjoyment to all [illegible] who are to a share in such [illegible].

This is the main and proper use of a festival, and this is the aim which all the [illegible] especially sought to subserve. Unfortunately [illegible] unfortunately succeeded in doing only [illegible] of the second. [illegible] would have done if they had paid more attention to the prominent conditions of success in [illegible]. In every effort to succeed essentially [illegible] the first condition is to [illegible] more and make more [illegible] than being shrewd would be a good thing. This is what the promoting and [illegible] of festivals and choral meetings get the [illegible] impression, however, is to be made [illegible] the present. The musical festival [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to do much. Don't [illegible] good [illegible] are to [illegible] the men, musically here [illegible] they succeed [illegible] are to a way of being [illegible]. STARTLING TESTIMONY.

CAPT. SCHAACK'S HAIR-RAISING STORY TO THE GRAND JURY.

He Gives All About a Gigantic Plot to Rob and Sack Certain Portions of the City and Has the Evidence to Prove It—Only a Few Days More Time Needed to Complete the Chain—Anarchists to Custody.

Last Schaack's testimony, given before the grand jury, it turns out, was of a far more important character than has been generally supposed by the general public. In fact, it was considered and borrowing to the highest degree. This officer has been more to the front in discovering the Anarchist conspiracy than all the detectives put together. His thorough knowledge of the habits of the lights worked particularly against him, and frequently he found it necessary to arrest the leaders against the murderers. Unfortunately, not wholly averse to this business. Schaack, on the arrest of the Haymarket murderers, he did not desiring to whack them, and he did not go into the conspiracy with the evidence collected, and he carefully avoided all theories. To begin with, he told the jury that he had no doubt that the principal Lingg and associates formed a number of dynamite bombs, that he got the material from the police clothing office. He had witnesses to prove this. One of the witnesses was a prosecution of Lingg would have to convict, or not to be asked to divulge. He would give the details of the manufacture of the explosives and tell the greatest police secrets about Seven who Lingg. There were four bombs, and with Lingg and one other were under arrest. This witness was [illegible] through. It was left to a certain man, whose name he would not divulge just now, to convict the bombs on the night of the great meeting.

The second witness of the Coroner's testimony was Gilbert, a [illegible] Seven, [illegible] and Schaack. He came out to testify of this business. He is owners of [illegible] time. There [illegible] have heard a deal of [illegible] Anarchists, and [illegible] Seven. He [illegible] Schaack's testimony and a meeting was [illegible] the police [illegible] to [illegible] Hall [illegible] Lingg [illegible] Seven [illegible] Schaack [illegible] Lingg [illegible] Seven [illegible] Schaack [illegible] Lingg [illegible] Seven [illegible] Schaack

BOOMED BY CHICAGOANS.

SAGGERS GIVE MEN PUT SOME LIFE INTO WALL STREET.

The St. Paul Court Placed the Market with Some Bullishly Bad Dispositions—A Change that Sends the Bulls for the Summer City Securities Have Been Taken Largely by the Syndicate—Recent Manipulations of Fish Accounts Referred—The Western Roads Overlooking Matters.

New York, May 27.—(Special.)—The Chicago financial writers have had considerable to say in the market the last part of the week. It was not enough in the last half. Sentiment proved to have died, but there was evidently some small party, and that St. Paul was brought to the front as the bull leader, with Mr. Keene and the other big Yankees down about a city block the street a new position. The special occasion for this little boom was the announcement of a new issue of bonds by the company. When St. Paul is bumped strongest it is safe to say it means a new issue of securities, several bonds, preferred stock, debentures or mortgage bonds, or something of the kind. The St. Paul Company is a great stock and bond corn. Its last operation in the bond line converted $30,000,000 of 7 per cents on the common stock—$60,000,000 of it—and now the Syndicate says—$40,000,000 of it are to be put on Queer City. Gross earnings have been increasing enormously, and the road is now the only one serving the country from the various sources of income, but some one of other of the bunch. Mr. Smith, as financial head, has to see to some re-organization, and these some one where to get the money. Some people say the company is to be reorganized, but there is not the slightest need for that. The bonds are all right, and the stock is worth par. The company has been using its credit to the very utmost, and it is time to put in some new capital. Mr. Smith, it appears, did not like the method of doing business, but there was no other way of getting the money

A BOYCOTT SYMPOSIUM.

THE SUBJECT IN ITS HISTORICAL AND OTHER PHASES.

Queer Subjects on Boycotting to Receive Attention There Calls It a Catastrophe—Warner Miller Denounces It as Un-American and Most Undemocratic—Lee Claflin Justifies the Use of Dynamite—Views of John Swinton and John Swinton.

Boycotting, the fact, is as old as Noah's Ark; boycotting, the word, was first used by the present writer but time and years ago, though the word was first used in London. It is not historically correct to get the policy of boycotting on Irish or a foreign question. It has been exerted in every age and country, and workers were ostensibly, always, or more effectively than in America, during the American Revolution to suppress the "Non-importation agreements" of Revolutionary times, "the resolutions of 1765 associations" of New York, the "resolutions of Connecticut merchants, in 1768, in 1769, New Jersey, by her representative assembly of twenty, without signatures to this, but provided her Governor consented to the scope of peach. The resolutions contained agreed to "boycott" at Irish goods and importations. They never their going "Non-importation agreements." Original American men were made in England are traced back to the Queen of Sheba, who called on Solomon to boycott the Queen of Ophir who refused to do likewise. By every country and locality, time immemorial, boycotting has been practiced. Its methods and results are as various as the localities. Its power and effectiveness depend on the intelligence and unanimity of the boycotters. Boycotting is as old as the Jews of Ireland

JAMES G. BLAINE DISCUSSES THE BEHRING SEISURES.

The Fisheries Question Should Be Settled Once for All—The United States Has Rights Which Must Be Respected—Opposition to Any Reciprocity Treaty—Canadians Lawyers Think the Alaska Claims Be Not Defensible on Existing Anglo-International Agreements.

BAR HARBOR, Me., May 27.—Ex. James G. Blaine, accompanied by Mrs. Blaine, reached here last evening. Mr. Blaine said in a conversation: "The fisheries question resolves itself to a matter of fact. The fishermen of the United States ought to have the privilege of fishing on any portion of the coast and the adjacent islands. The Government of the United States should demand—I say demand—a return to the terms of the treaty of 1783, when the peace and amicable relations between this country and the successful rebellious colonies were arranged and ratified. The treaty gave the United States the same rights and privileges as regards the fisheries that the colonists of the colonies enjoyed prior to the Revolutionary War. Those rights enabled the citizens of the United States to fish wherever citizens of the United States to fish wherever they chose on the coast of the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Newfoundland. The act of war between the nations abrogated all treaties, and the British Government made such a claim after the War of 1812, when the provisions of 1783 had never been terminated nor settled. The treaty of 1783 has never been terminated by any mutual agreement, but has become very materially changed by subsequent conventions, which have been made from time to time between the United States and Great Britain, and which have been accepted by the colonies as a matter of course. Great Britain claims the right because the Dominion of Canada is a colony and has the right to enforce its own laws. The question should be settled once for all. The American fishermen should not be compelled to submit to any further petty interference or to be subject to a petition to suffer as they have suffered for many years. I think that England should claim that point in the present case of the United States. The point is the present form of the United States Government cannot deal with the matter. The Executive cannot deal with the matter, for the Executive cannot enter into treaties without the consent of two-thirds of the Senate

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD.

A GLANCE OVER THE LAST WEEK HERE AND IN THE EAST.

The Stress Will Attract the Greater Share of Public Attention to Gotham, but the Marshes Have a Fascination of Their Own During Promises to Be Highly Successful—Southern Women Leading Metropolitan Fashionable Friends.

It is true not for the ladies there would be no "society" in the conventional sense of the word. Elsewhere, when people complacently say that society is full they merely represent the actual. As a matter of fact those creatures of social obligations are busy with their accustomed duties and have not a moment to waste. Caught, indeed, are the women over five who had a moment to spare. Every person in personal touch is being manufactured to receive some-thing wonderful or delicious, for the entertainment, or the amusing, or the interesting. Shopping is the excuse of the hour, and in this supreme day this excuse is abundant, each and every one of them pressing that hour to its utmost limit. It is then to they are the most simply alive to it. It is then to they are the most thoroughly heart of society that every woman sentimentally to their stock. In this hopeful day lots of love and love, smiling and sincere, changing on the sunshine-blossom to their corsages, they throng the stores of Field's or Cable's or bright past the two hour that guard the doorway of Gossage's elegant bandboxes.

In the night pass to the luxurious home evening to recover energy. Recovery the pulse seems that the market will a veritable spring deluge of society, and that here is to stop up with all speed, in the name of progress and civilization!

There is Clara Louise Kellogg's new book, for instance, "Real Opera." It positively ought with fascination. That book is what it may sound not to a matter to their minds.

But to turn of times and seasons, people with a craving for "real" and merry, with what pleasure they may.

The end of Dr. E. Cummings has reported by the Chicago conference not Tuesday. The only others, future members will to to the pastorate, trust to to grant a harmless fight has been and a sermon to save. Though, indeed, all the women over five who had a moment to spare. Every person in personal touch is being manufactured to receive some-thing wonderful or delicious, for the entertainment, or the amusing, or the interesting. Shopping is the excuse of the hour, and in this supreme day this excuse is abundant, each and every one of them pressing that hour to its utmost limit. Mr. Forbes, President of the Duluth Board of Trade, was in Chicago in the city yesterday.

Mr. W. G. Tyler, President of the W. G. Tyler Paper Company, with his mother and sister are spending three or four weeks in the city.

IN GENERAL.

The temperature yesterday, as observed by Hasbrouck, Cameron Building, was as follows: 6 a. m., 57°; 9 a. m., 70°; 12 m., 76°; 3 p. m., 77°; 6 p. m., 72°; 9 p. m., 67°. Barometer, 9 a. m., 30.00; 6 p. m., 30.00.

John E. Hilliard, the bookkeeper who was sent to Judge Gogert's branch of the Criminal Court for the alleged embezzlement of $1,000 from Wagner Bros., & Co. of the Union Stock Yards, was found not guilty by the jury yesterday.

Mr. Louis Eaton, who has been connected with the Grand Opera House for five years, and treasurer for a year, will be given a benefit Sunday evening. The Detroit manager cannot pay the regular "Queen's Love Ambassador" to-day here again.

During Mr. Hartzel's absence in Kansas, where he has gone on a brief visit, those in charge of the Interstate Fair, which is to be given next month at the Chicago Driving Park, will endeavor to push the attractions to make success of the city.

Joseph Hartzell, a letter carrier, who was arrested a couple weeks since from Evanston, charged with stealing letters from Postmaster Bullard's office, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Gary to three years in State's Prison at hard labor. Justice Thomas, committed of stealing eleven letters through the mail, was fined $50 and costs.

While trying to board a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train at Gurnsey and Hamburg avenue yesterday morning Frank Ramsspeck, a Polish laborer living at No. 240 Union avenue, fell under the wheels and had his right foot cut off at the ankle. He was taken to the County Hospital for treatment.

Thursday evening, May 20, Dr. H. A. Hopkins, assistant Superintendent of the Chicago Telephone Company, was married to Miss Lucretia L. Torrence, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. Torrence, at the residence of the bride. The presents were numerous and elegant. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins will be at home to friends at No. 39 Thirty-sixth street.

In the Colonial, a paper published by the Home Publishing Company, recently organized, appears an article on the cover of the publication, and the last issue calls on Colonel Sullivan, property on the Calumet line & Hyde Park Company. The company thinks it was performing an unnecessary labor of love in writing and printing about the publishing company for $5,000 compact.

John McDermott, a coal-driver, came on a visit to the city to Steve Lail, and becoming possessed with the idea of the city, by Lake Lake avenue, and took her an invalid sister that he left her on death. For a time he was insane, but it was thought he gradually and was almost recover. The police being notified of the entire condition, McDermott was arrested, and he is now held without bail in the Desplaines Street Station.

The trustees of the Illinois Masonic Orphans' Home, who have purchased the property on the northwest corner of Carroll avenue and Sheldon street, have issued an appeal to the craft for funds. They require $15,000 before they can build on the various lots in the Home to contributors according to their means. They say the credit and good name of the fraternity will be affected by the success or failure of their purpose.

The warm, pleasant weather has started the spring crop of hoodlums. Friday day, Simon Isaac was arrested and taken to Desplaines Street Station, and took it to the Guardhouse. Yesterday Isaac, accompanied by Attorney Abrahamson, appeared before Justice Summers, and the case was dismissed, the complainant failing to appear. Isaac has since made a claim for $50 and costs.

Frank Webster, the young man who shot the cook at Wilson Warner, the restaurant at No. 49 Washington street Thursday afternoon, was arraigned before Justice Summers yesterday on the charge of assault with intent to commit murder. Mr. Warner expressed hope that he would recover, as Webster was intoxicated at the time. The charge was accordingly changed to that of disorderly conduct and a fine imposed, but on the prisoner's taking to pledge the execution was stayed.

L. W. Fisher, the Board of Trade messenger assessed by the Board of Directors for unnecessary conduct, has prepared an article for entertainment which makes a pamphlet forty-one pages long, a copy being sent yesterday to each director. In the evidence was introduced of the charges against him, under the authority of the, the said charges were false, and denied a strong appeal for reinstatement. The committee of directors who considered the matter decided that the charges were sustained by the evidence, and adhered to the action taken.

A meeting of stockholders was held at Forest Hill last Wednesday evening to take action for the organization of a State company there. Dr. E. S. Carlos was chosen Chairman, and Mr. Frederic Grant Gunnison, Secretary, who, a discussion, a suggestion, accordingly of E. P. Ingalls, Esq. E. Jr. Lewis and Mr. Hall, letting with the Chairman and Secretary, was selected to prepare a circular setting forth the sentiment of the meeting and to solicit the adjournment convention Wednesday evening, June 30, to Market Hall, to perfect the organization.

A Stigma from Washington to an aforetime prosecutor about San Juan C. Cole, Treasurer of the Illinois Central, was in the Interstate Commerce Commission, June 2 in the interest of a railroad enterprise, and the fact aroused some excitement for the moment, from the Republic. "There is no fact," said Mr. Cole, "to the statement that I am a Democrat, and I have been Chief Agent of the company at Cairo three years, and I have no connection with or interest in the Democratic party. I have been a Republican all my life, and I am a Republican now, and I have no connection with or interest in the Democratic party."

The grand jury yesterday took up the investigation of the murder of Charles Ege, a boy who was killed in a "fight" across on the South Division street the night of April 4. Several witnesses were examined, and it is expected that the case will be disposed of to-day.

The Anti-Saloon Association of Chicago will observe "Memorial Day" Saturday, May 29. The executive will assemble at headquarters, No. 11 Washington street, at 10 o'clock a. m., and will march to a vacant lot on the Illinois Central Depot, where they will take the cars to Riverside Cemetery. All societies are invited to join the association in observing the memories of passing generations. The graves of the men of both sides will be decorated, and the day will be spent in the most fraternal manner. The executive committee of the association believe their meeting on Saturday is likely to result in the organization.

The women of the Grand Army of the Republic gave a reception last evening at their hall to the Sherman Edge Pioneers during. There was about fifty persons present, and the evening was spent in social chat. Refreshments were furnished by the ladies, and the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

FREIGHT RATES BETWEEN EASTERN AND WESTERN CITIES.

The Attempt to Be Made by the Grand Trunk to Reduce Them—Reports Current from Lake English Ship-Canal Scheme—Rate Made by Rival to Chicago Syndicate—Railroad Appointments in Western States—Miscellaneous Notes.

Although particular precautions have been taken to prevent the publication of rate-cutting rumors during the last week, and the statements did not be circulated in the Chicago Exchanges of the various Eastern grain trade centers, yet, from reasons to exist that the last week's business in corn, grain, and provisions for the last week by the seven grain lines through from Chicago to eastward points amounted to about seventeen to each 10,000 tons, against 15,000 tons for the week previous, a decrease of 50 tons for the week. For the corresponding period last year the total shipments amounted to 40,000 tons, a decrease of 25,000 tons. No doubt that such improvements are brought the week from are entirely to prevent their statements from being made public. They have been practicing a large amount in shipments, and on the strength of it stocks have been bought on the New York exchanges at such. The conferences are no doubt that rumors current to the effect that the said tonnage of last week has not further increased. But one of the seven grain lines might easily have carried the said tonnage by all the lines without being overtaxed in the least. This interest that the two great lines—Grand, Chicago & Atlantic, and Commercial & Chicago—took out during the week a larger amount of grain than was shipped by the seven grain lines, Commercial Steamboat and the rail-line managers have the enthusiasm to assert that the present rate of the Eastern trunk lines, and that any attempt to a reduction of rates and the inauguration of a rate-cutting war would be disastrous to all concerned in the Eastern trade. Such assertions are not borne out by the facts of the case, and the prospect of a reduction in rates is not considered remote by the managers of the Eastern lines. The Grand Trunk, which has been the most conservative of the Eastern trunk lines, and which has been the most successful in maintaining rates, has given notice that it will not be bound by the present rates after June 1, and that it will make such rates as it may deem necessary to secure its share of the business. It is understood that the Grand Trunk will make a reduction of 10 cents per 100 pounds on grain from Chicago to Boston, and that the other lines will follow suit. The Grand Trunk has been carrying grain from Chicago to Boston at 25 cents per 100 pounds, and the reduction will bring the rate down to 15 cents. A Scheme That Finds Little Encouragement in This City.

Mr. James Stark of London, England, was in the city yesterday to interest Chicago capitalists in the proposed Chesapeake & Georgia Ship Canal. Mr. Stark had letters of introduction to President Wright of the Chicago Board of Trade and other prominent citizens. He is the agent of Messrs. Cockburn, Gillespie, Lumber Co., Ltd., of London, Eng., and other gentlemen, who represent a syndicate of English capitalists, who, it is said, are willing to put $5,000,000 into the proposed canal if business men in this section will put another million or so. Mr. Stark had letters to the effect that the syndicate would be willing to subscribe $1,000,000 to the stock of the canal company, provided Chicago capitalists would subscribe $1,000,000 more. The proposed canal is to run from Lake Michigan, at Lake Calumet, to the Little Calumet River, and thence to the Illinois River, at Utica, La Salle county. The distance from Chicago to the Illinois River is 60 miles, and the estimated cost of the canal is $3,000,000. The estimated cost of the canal is $3,000,000. AMERICAN OPERA.

IT IS HERE AT LAST, AND HERE TO STAY.

Some of the Leading Lights of the Institution That Is to Entirely Obliterate the Gulf That Has Yawned for So Long Between Old and New World Operatic Enthusiasts—An Imposing Array of Singers, with Surely Talent Enough to Carry the Enterprise to Success.

We are but Americans as a race of Philistine breed of all true appreciation of art. Who dares to charge that they have no aspirations to beautify life by that "enjoyment and light" of which Matthew Arnold and Count Tolstoi were the ardentest apostles and ministers? Let the contemptuous scoff who scoffs at the lustiness of our art growth scoff and take the light of day and lift its dazzled eyes to the heights that Americans have dared turn themselves and for their gratification; to the gratitude (dare!) to purify affection for the American Opera. Judging it not as old as Italy, but the American habit can give the completion of La Scala and the accretion of Her Grace half the years on the crag and that Spanish face at the Conservatorio gates. Our audiences do not quaff as copious draughts to Lauterbach as do those of Munich or Berlin; but they are just as reverential and one per just as long without bibulous as one tube of Rhine or Rhone Sirdom. America has not the grand opera of Paris, but has shown grim Iron New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Chicago the only occasion and more substance than the genius of the Parisian shows. Just what shall be said of the grandeur accorded, the 1,000 one voices, the 2,000 pounds of electrical apparatus, the costs thereto given by a passionate enthusiasm, that every accessory may be as perfect and as expensive as possible?

A critic of 50 years or so ago actually thought of such a thing as American opera. In the early days of Dan Emmett, the minstrel father of Dan Emmett and Buster the Italian opera enjoyed an income of "Lucia" and "Lucrezia," given in English to decent and degent. The recent appearance of great opera of which Dan Setzer writhes had expression for the performance of "The Flying Dutchman," which always took place when a big fight was announced in the courtyard of Pete Maher's tavern. The Pierre Petters never had the courage that the American opera would be one of the great attractions of the future, neither had the chilly Bruce Price, for permanent theme for Dana, and John Sartain as he by thinking of the grand revival of Gilbert, Sullivan opera was an unknown and consequent quality to the very artisans of Illinois. Jim Burgette and Pat La Hiffernan had their book of "Erin" and "The Night Trap." The only amendment these gentlemen had was giving bankruptcy to a few when the first floods are ready, the engineering engineers "Lion of a Lot fall) are gone." But it is always the unexpected that happens in other things than politics.

Americans have wanted of opera in language which, grammatic sobbing, that by our contingent. They have even become enthused with open singing of our stage supported by a company of temperance, as in the case of Marietta Gentzler, a Pole, supported by Arbuckle. Cheap and shabby costumes and mediocrity and upon the audience. That is enough to open our door to a composer that can be redeemed by the majority. Therefore the American opera is necessary. It is the judgment of a nation. It is "Hail and good, if the conditions are willing to pay the price, audiences should not object to hearing. The American opera is an assertion now spread out in assertion style. Theodore Thomas may be a Bayreuth, Dexter Clarence may be a Bayreuth, Dexter Clarence may be from Sedan, Candidus from Strassburg, Josh from Hanover, and I steamed from Almeria, but he is a Yankee opera of the opera.

A peculiarity of this composer is that it bears no discernment nor more and not so rare of nativity; in fact, has to well about the particular from about the Indians, the cowboys, the other characters, and the chorus, being those of the commonplaces. This is a novelty to those who have been accustomed to the presentation of Italy surrounded by slightly native to the way of opera and extreme and custom authority to the rural singers. The most performances of the troupe here in New York are "Aroon Crohoo," which is more of the highest and most refined type. What would Wagner, with his ideas of the unity and harmony of music and drama, have said of a performance where in the course of a passionate love scene the prima donna, with her back to the audience, and her face to the prompter, calmly read the words of her part from a book held in the hand of the tenor? Yet this is the custom in the American opera. Another feature is the use of the chorus. The chorus is not a mere background for the principals, but acts as actor through the introduction of a great operatic production. Should it be known to America that it is a center of musical culture, Chicago will be appreciated as a voice-master and the highly successful in training. In fact there suggest that as Chicago has been established the center of the Northwest it ought to be the center of musical culture in

PARIS THEN AND NOW.

TWENTY YEARS' CHANGES IN THE GAY FRENCH CAPITAL.

The Reflections of a Visitor Who Saw the Beginning and End of the Reign of Napoleon III.—The Days of the Commune—Will the City of Art and Pleasure—Seattle Before Improvements—Some Sights—Americans in the Front.

(Copyrighted, 1896, by Stanley Huntley.)

PARIS, May 10.—[Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.]—Although I am not one of the Americans who seek to drink Bass Ale "about" for Napoleon, it is always with some pleasure that I find my feet on the asphalt of its broad avenues and that I favor my eyes to the ruling panorama of its western monuments. Paris is the most fugitive city in the world, and very suddenly does it lend out its hands to the strangers within its gates. Sometimes wounded that only too often the interest here is beyond reserve or at any rate, Paris is not only a city of true art and, to sort of speak—it is itself a huge work, the art of Europe, the rare quarry of the world, where all go for its gifts of pleasure. It has no disposition to seem himself at home and it has, due to all a front seat at the show, commanding a variety of its daily life. There are theaters and circuses, museums and picture galleries, race-courses and concerts of lawcourts, all ringing from four to five, and yet, at present, the universal Parisian gaiety which has won mankind for little and entertainment only the more closely to the service of pose. The golden season of Parisian life is now, to the eyes, not much what it was half a century ago. There are more people in the city and more strangers. Transference has never been going forward with so great hurry, and to-day the Empire triumphant has so much for capitals, roads and the beautiful, the best getting in straight and solidity to the very deepest years; for Paris is to be remained pretty much then. But now and on, but Paris stands where she did—fifty years ago.

I say so good reason to say that I should, in the beginning of the reign of Napoleon III, the middle of it, and to-day—and good and I was a real little boy when the middle of the century was coming when I was born in Paris, but I was on the threshold of a book in the Rue Castiglione to see the Queen Victoria. There was a splendid show of horses, and a carriage of lights, and a carriage of Eugenie in the array of a Spanish costume. Even the living of the Louvre with the Tuileries, connected by the arcades III., was the monument to the military glories of the century, although even the Hospital of Invalides, from different, and the Republic has continued the work of the Empire. The mill marks a reason by Viollet-le-Duc and completed, and it was begun, in 1870, the Arch of Triumph to be lighted by electricity for the Universal Exhibition of 1889, and the Grand Palais, was finished during the Great Exhibition of 1878, and the Eiffel Tower, was the greatest work of the century, and the Trocadero, was the Exhibition of 1878, and the Palais de Chaillot, was the Exhibition of 1889, and the Palais de Chaillot, was the Exhibition of 1889, and the Palais de Chaillot, was the Exhibition of 1889

HOW WE ARE AMUSED.

THE BIG DAY OF THE REGULAR THEATRICAL SEASON CLOSE AT HAND.

Plenty of Attractions Promised, However, to Help Matters Along Fairly Satisfactorily Through the Summer Months—The Amateurs Open—Local Preparations for a Season of Congressmen, Both in Music and Spectacle—The Engineers and Other Conventional Heads Coming—Vocal Gossip.

The regular season at the real theatres is practically over, and playgoers had themselves upon the threshold of what in Chicago is the period of the summer season. It must be remarked, that while the other leading cities of the country are deserted during the warm months, Chicago, famed for the cool lake breezes, enjoys the preferences of a class which is eagerly sought by stylists from the South and East. The accommodations, therefore, of the attractions provided at the best theatres to while away the summer will be particularly interesting at the present time.

Al Hayman's is now over and a new era will begin upon the parlor stage. "Shenandoah" has been written by Bronson Howard, and the Lyceum Company, the latter being secured by all odds to lose its leader to yearnings with to be "Shakespearean," would be loath to let Mr. W. J. Scanlan. The pen of the new piece has not been given out, but the cast, which is an actress, displays some familiar names:

Gen. Sigel, Capt. Sheridan, Lieut. Custer, Gen. Grant, Gen. Sherman, Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Custer, Gen. Sigel
